Questions:

1. Why do you want to improve (i.e., what are the motives behind your desired personal, professional or organization's improvement)?
[The answer may not be as obvious with universal agreement as it may seem, once we employ the questioning-to-the-void method].
2. What were your personal, professional and organization's improvement goals for the past year?
3. Did you categorize them according to personal, professional or organization's improvement goals?
4. Did you clearly understand and identify the points of interconnection among your personal, professional or organization's improvement goals?
5. How well did you meet these goals?
6. What are some of the high points and low points of meeting your goals?
7. Have you attended a continuous improvement webinar, course, session, or presentation in the past?
8. How did that help you with answers to questions 1 to 6?
